• Kind and caring • Make sure that the interns are given more benefits because we are unpaid. A 9am-5pm schedule is ridiculous when considering the fact that we are unpaid and unable to get supplementary jobs due to the strenuous hours. Leaving early whenever we get our work done early or scheduling more time off during the week (for example leaving early on Fridays) should be considered as an option for next year's program at the very minimum. The interns would be better taken care of and therefore more likely to work hard when they are at work. When an organization treats its interns right, there is a return on investment in the form of those interns working harder and wanting to come back and get a full time job with the company. Also, an extremely important point I want to make is changing the language on the application for this program to make sure it does not look like anyone who applies can either choose to work for pay or work for credits. I was under the impression that I was going to be paid for this position and so I turned down some other paid opportunities to take this one instead. The application should specify that the only people allowed to work for money are graduate students; I know many of the interns were also surprised when they found out they would not be getting paid.
